A brief description of the design and its meaning (Max word count: 150):

This is an art of crayons. This represents our community, and our arts. The crayons are different in size. This shows that not everyone is the same, but we're all equal. We are all crayons at the end of the day. The crayons' heads may differ in size, thickness, and sharpness, but this just shows our diversity.

A brief description of the design and its meaning (Max word count: 150):

Hello, I'm Meadow. I know I have a very low chance of winning and that's okay. But I could be so thankful that I did. I chose to draw Californic Poppies and a Monarch butterfly because they are my moms favorite flower and butterfly she has always loved and supported my art journey, and I would love to find a way to repay her for always having my back.

Thank you for your time have a nice day.

The stars vary in color and none are drawn exactly the same, symbolizing diversity in our community. They join hands, symbolizing unity, forming a circle that creates a heart with colors mixing with each other that came from each star, representing that we're all included in creating a warm bond.

A brief description of the design and its meaning (Max word count: 150):

My piece of art represents courage in Elk Grove. The vibrant and colorful fish showed the beauty of nature and rivers in our community, like Cosumnes River. The theme for my drawing that inspires me the most is the rainbow ribbon stream. Each color of ribbon shows their own deep painful battle fields with CANCER. Many warriors from all ages have been fighting with all their strength through these causes. It is important to have courage and perseverance to get through what looks impossible. The fish represents the beauty within every one of us while swimming through the rainbow river with passion and hope. I truly hope and believe this piece of art could reach out to as many people as possible reminding them of their own bravery and uniqueness.
